  - 2.23. If the interest calculated for the Deposit in accordance with the provisions of the Term Deposit Agreement is payable to the Customer at the Deposit maturity and the Term Deposit Agreement stipulates that the automatic extension of the Effective Period of the Deposit is to be made also regarding the calculated (accrued) interest for the Deposit, then, automatically extending the Effective Period of the Deposit, the interest for the Deposit calculated (accrued) on the date of the automatic extension of the Effective Period of the Deposit shall be credited to the Term Deposit Account to supplement the Deposit balance on the Term Deposit Account.
